SECTION XI. To substitute for Clause 6 the following:—

6. The Dean, or the Vice-Dean, with two other Professors of the Faculty, shall be a quorum.

SECTION XIII. To substitute for Clauses 4–7 the following, and to add Clause 8:—

4. Before removing a Professor, Lecturer, or Teacher from the whole or any part of the duties of his office, the Council shall send to the Senate a written statement of the grounds of removal, and shall request the opinion of the Senate thereon. The Council shall at the same time send a copy of such written statement to the Professor, Lecturer, or Teacher in question.

5. The Senate shall investigate the matter contained in such statement, and shall report, in writing, their opinion thereon to the Council, within twenty-one days, or such longer period as the Council may fix.

The adoption of any such Report shall require the votes of not less than eight members of the Senate, being the majority of those present and voting on the question.

SECTION XIV. New Bye-Law to come after the present Clause 22.

23. If it shall come to the knowledge of the Dean of either Faculty that a Student enrolled in his Faculty has been brought before any Criminal Court, or before a Justice of the Peace, or a Police Magistrate, and has been subjected to any sentence, such Dean shall proceed to deal with the case in the same manner as, under the provisions of Clauses 18, 19, and 20, he might have proceeded, in case a Report in writing had been made to him by a Professor, Lecturer, or Teacher of his Faculty, charging a Student by name with disorderly behaviour in a Class-room during the attendance therein of such Professor, Lecturer, or Teacher; and such Dean shall have the same power in the former case as in the latter case, of pronouncing and recording judgment on the Student's behaviour, and of passing and recording sentence, and of remitting the case to the Court of Discipline, to be dealt with in manner hereafter mentioned, with respect to cases of disorderly conduct, and of breach of discipline occurring within the College.

Dr. Hodgson moved,—That this Meeting—while gratified to learn that a motion made (without previous notice) at a recent Meeting of the Council, and declaring ineligible for the Chair of Logic and Mental Philosophy "a Candidate eminent as Minister and Preacher of any one among the various Sects dividing the religious world," was defeated in the Council, though by a very small majority—is of opinion that the motion ought not to have been entertained at all; because, as the restriction thus formally proposed on the choice of Candidates is contrary to the professed principles and practice of the College ever since its foundation, the adoption of it, even were that desirable, is within the powers, not of the Council, but of the general body of Proprietors.

The Rev. P. Ham seconded the motion.

The Chairman said that, as he presided at the Session of Council when the motion was made to which Dr. Hodgson's Resolution referred, he was responsible if any irregularity had been committed in allowing the motion to be put. Dr. Hodgson entirely misconceived the nature of the motion in supposing that it could have the effect of rendering any Candidate ineligible, or that it had been proposed for that purpose. For any such purpose it would have been necessary that it should have been passed, as a Bye-Law, by a General Meeting. The motion had been negatived by the Council; but even if it had been passed, it would not have prevented any Member of the Council from proposing Mr. Martineau, and he would have been bound as Chairman to put such a motion. The Resolution in question was proposed simply as an expression of opinion or statement of reasons on the part of the Council. There might be differences of opinion as to the expediency of passing such a Resolution, but in his opinion there was clearly nothing irregular in its being proposed; and he would therefore have been guilty of a breach of duty if he had declined to receive it as Chairman, and to put it to the Meeting.

The question put:—On a show of hands, there appearing to be two in favour of the motion, and a considerable number against it, the motion was negatived.

BELPER,
Chairman.

On the motion of James Yates, Esq.,

Resolved unanimously,—That the thanks of the Meeting be returned to Lord Belper for his kindness in presiding at this Meeting, and for his conduct in the Chair.

CHAS. C. ATKINSON, Secretary.

REPORT.

SESSION 1865–66.

STUDENTS.

The number of Pupils in the College during the Session 1865–66 was 895: viz. 452 Students and 443 Boys in the School. The Students of the Faculty of Medicine were 209, of whom 72 were new Students: the Students of the Faculty of Arts and Laws were 243, of whom 145 were new Students. The Students of Analytical Chemistry in the Birkbeck Laboratory were 31. The highest number of Boys in the School in any one Term was 385.

The receipt for the Session 1865–66 from Students and Pupils for Fees, omitting fees for Hospital Practice, was £13,948 12*s.* 6*d.* Of that sum, £3157 3*s.* was received for attendance on Medical Classes, £3843 4*s.* 6*d.* for attendance on the Classes of the Faculty of Arts and Laws, and £6948 5*s.* on account of the School. The share of Professors and Masters was £10,200 9*s.* 7*d.*, leaving £3,748 2*s.* 11*d.* for the College portion. The sum of £1523 17*s.*, received for Clinical Instruction at the Hospital, was paid to the Hospital Committee towards the support of the Charity. Comparing these items with the corresponding returns of the Session 1864–65, it will be found that there was last Session a marked improvement in every Department of the College, both in the numbers of the Students, and in the financial results. This is the more satisfactory as the previous Session had itself shown a decided improvement on that of 1863–64.

The entries for the current Session up to this day are—Medical Students 199, of whom 64 are new Students; new entries to the Hospital 66; Students of the Faculty of Arts and Laws, including 77 attending the Evening Classes, 295, of whom 196 are new Students; Analytical Chemistry 20. The number of Boys in the School is 361. At the corresponding period of last year it was 351.

The Classes of the Faculty of Arts in which there is an increase of Students this Session, are, Architecture, History, Philosophy of Mind and Logic, Mathematical Physics, and Experimental Physics.

COLLEGE PRIZES.

The Ricardo Scholarship in Political Economy of £20 a year, tenable for three years, was awarded to Mr. Frederic Green, of Saffron Walden.

The Jews' Commemoration Scholarship of £15 a year, tenable for two years, was awarded to Mr. Arthur Hibble Higgs, of Sudbury.

In the Medical Faculty, the Atkinson-Morley Surgical Scholarship of £45 per annum, tenable for three years, was awarded to Mr. Henry Clothier, of Haslemere.

The Longridge Prize of £40 for General Proficiency in Medicine and Surgery was awarded to Mr. William Rd. Gowers, of Coggeshall.

The Filliter Exhibition in Pathological Anatomy of £30 was obtained by Mr. Henry Carter Wigg, of Geelong.

The Andrews Entrance Exhibition for Classics, Mathematics, and Physics combined, was gained by Mr. James Sewell, of University College School; the Exhibition for Mathematics and Physics was awarded to Mr. William Holbrook Robson, of the same School; and the Exhibition for Classics alone was obtained by Mr. A. W. K. Miller, of the North London Collegiate School, Camden Town. The First Medical Entrance Exhibition was gained by Mr. Charles H. Carter; the second by Mr. Alfred H. Carter; and the third by Mr. William Hammond.

THE SCHOOL.

The Report received by the Council from their Committee who had discharged the duty of considering the condition and working of the School during the Session 1865–66, as detailed in the Reports made at the end of the Session by the Head Master, by Prof. Malden, by the Vice-Master, and by the Assistant Masters, was in all respects satisfactory, and on some points more so than in several preceding years. The numerical returns (as shown in p. 7) exhibited a decided increase—an increase the more gratifying as it was coincident with the augmentation of the fee, which first came into operation at the commencement of the second Term. A comparison of the numbers during the current Session with those of the corresponding terms of last Session shows a continuous improvement in this respect. (1st Term 1865, 347; 1866, 354. 2nd Term 1866, 351; 1867, 361.) The testimony borne by all the Masters to the general good conduct and discipline of the pupils, and the evidence of diligent study and effective teaching appeared satisfactory.

Mr. Case, according to the intention announced by him at the beginning of the Session of resigning his post of Vice-Master, had retired at the end of the Session. The Council concur in the regret expressed by the Committee that the School has been deprived of his zealous and valuable superintendence. To the merits and efficiency of Mr. Horton, whom the Council had appointed successor to Mr. Case, the Report of the Head Master bore ample testimony.

By the recommendation of the Head Master, the Committee have made a new arrangement for the Instruction in Gymnastics of the pupils of the School. Mr. Castellote has been appointed Teacher of Gymnastics. The Council have deemed it right to take the opportunity of a new appointment to require, as payment for the use of the ground, a small portion, 10 per cent, of the fees received for that Class.

In the Report of last year it was stated that on the retirement of Mr. Shields, Dr. Hodgson had kindly undertaken provisionally to instruct the Social Science class in the School. After becoming a Member of the Council he continued to discharge the duty gratuitously until the end of the Course. A vote of thanks for the service thus rendered in an emergency was passed to Dr. Hodgson by the Council at their Session on the 4th August. The instruction of this class is now committed to Mr. George J. Hawkes, M.A., late Scholar of Lincoln College, Oxford, one of the Assistant Masters.

The Junior department of the School is less than it was at the corresponding period of the last Session by four boys; there has, however, been a more than usual increase of that class of entries for the present term, and it seems probable that by the end of the Session the number will be at least equal to what it has been in preceding years.

The attention of the Committee had been attracted by representations from several quarters to the imperfect accomodation in point of Rooms for the School, to the encroachments, for purposes of the School, on the Class Rooms of the College, and to the want of space for the more effectual teaching in the School of the Classes of Experimental Science, to which increased attention has been given during the last few years under the conduct of Mr. Gill. The Committee recommend that the Botanical Theatre, now rarely used, should be turned to account more frequently for the teaching of the School Classes; but they say they cannot shut their eyes to the fact that the accommodation for these Classes on the whole is insufficient and unsatisfactory, and they express a hope that the prosperity of the College may one day be such as to allow of adequate enlargement and improvements.

The former Pupils of the School who in the College Examinations obtained Prizes and Certificates of Honour were:—Mr. W. E. Ayrton, Andrew Scholarship of £50 for Mathematics; Mr. A. H. Higgs, Andrews Prize of £25 for Classics, and the Jews' Commemoration Scholarship; and Mr. E. H. Busk, the Prize of £5 for the best English Essay. In the ordinary Classes of the College, the highest Prizes in Mathematics and Mathematical Physics were gained by Mr. W. E. Ayrton, who obtained also the second Prize in the Class of Experimental Physics. Mr. A. H. Higgs obtained Prizes in the Senior Classes of both Latin and Greek. In the Junior Class of Sanskrit, Framjee Rustamjee gained the Prize. Mr. A. D. Benjamin obtained the Prize in the Junior Class of German. To Mr. Lewis Solomon was awarded the Donaldson Silver Medal in the Class of Architecture, 2nd year's Course.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

Several important changes in the Professorships of the College have taken place since the last Annual Meeting. Mr. Quain, after thirty-four years' valuable service, first as Professor of Anatomy, and subsequently as Special Professor of Clinical Surgery, resigned the latter office, and Mr. Erichsen, then Professor of the Principles and Practice of Surgery, was appointed to succeed to the Chair.

The Professorship of Surgery thus became vacant, and Mr. Marshall, who for twenty years had been in the service of the College, viz. from 1841 to 1860 as Assistant Surgeon, and since 1860 as Surgeon to the Hospital, and who had besides during several years formed and conducted classes for instruction in Operative Surgery and in Bandaging, was chosen to be the successsor to Mr. Erichsen.

The offices which had become vacant in consequence of the change in Mr. Marshall's position, were filled up as follows :—Mr. Christopher Heath obtained the appointments of Assistant Surgeon at the Hospital and of Instructor in Operative Surgery for the College. At the time of his candidature he was Assistant Surgeon to the Westminster Hospital, and Lecturer on Anatomy at the School of Medicine attached to that Hospital. Mr. M. Berkeley Hill, who during the last three years had filled the office of Assistant Surgeon at the University College Hospital, succeeded to Mr. Marshall's office of Instructor in Bandaging and the use of Surgical Apparatus.

Dr. Harley has resigned the office of Instructor in Practical Physiology and Histology. Dr. Michael Foster has been appointed his successor. He received his preliminary education as a pupil in the School. Subsequently as a Student in the College he obtained high Honours in both Faculties. He graduated as M.D. in the University of London in 1859.

On the recommendation of the Faculty of Medicine the title of Physician to the Hospital was conferred at the close of the Session on Professor Harley, Professor Wilson Fox, and Professor Sydney Ringer, until then styled Assistant Physicians.

Mr. Henry Thompson has had the title of Professor of Clinical Surgery, with liberty to give Clinical Lectures, conferred on him; and an additional number of beds in the Hospital for the treatment of Surgical cases has been assigned to him.

In the Faculty of Arts the changes in the course of last Session were two, occasioned by the resignation by Mr. Waley and Dr. Hoppus of the respective Professorships of Political Economy and Philosophy of the Mind and Logic. Professor Waley had held his office twelve years. Dr. Hoppus had been Professor of the Philosophy of the Mind and Logic thirty-six years, his appointment having taken place in 1829, the year next following the opening of the College. For a successor to Professor Waley, the choice fell on Mr. J. E. Cairnes, Professor of Political Economy in Queen's College Galway. He had formerly been Whately Professor of the same subject in Trinity College, Dublin, during one of the limited periods for which that appointment is tenable. He entered on the duties of the Professorship at the commencement of the Session, and completed his first course before Christmas, with the intention of giving a second course early in the spring, after the conclusion of his three months' course at the Galway College. Professor Cairnes has found it necessary to seek the benefit of change of air by a temporary visit to the Continent. Professor Waley has kindly consented to complete the course of Lectures on Political Economy this Session.

Mr. George Croom Robertson has received the appointment of Professor of Philosophy of the Mind and Logic as successor to Dr. Hoppus.

The Council, acting on the recommendation of the Senate, has conferred the title of Emeritus Professor on Dr. Hoppus, Mr. F. W. Newman, Mr. Richard Potter, Mr. Richard Quain, and Mr. Jacob Waley.

Professor De Morgan, who has filled the Chair of Mathematics since the opening of the College in 1828, with the exception of an interval of five years, has resigned his professorship as from the end of the present Session. Due steps have been taken for filling the chair before the opening of the next Session.

MR. SHARPE'S DONATIONS.

EVENING CLASSES.

In the Report of last year, the Members of the College were informed of a gift by Mr. Samuel Sharpe of £200 towards the expenses of Evening Classes. Thus encouraged, the Council redeemed the pledge given by some of their Members at the Annual Meeting in 1865, and reconsidered the subject of those Classes. A Committee held frequent Meetings and Conferences with Professors, and finally adopted a scheme the details of which will be found in the Prospectus and Calendar of the current Session. Seventeen general Classes were established, the instruction in which is conducted by eleven of the Professors, assisted by eight gentlemen nominated by them and approved by the Council, and by five gentlemen appointed by the Council. Five Law Classes also were formed under Professors Roby and Wood, and Mr. James Anstie, Mr. Arthur Charles, and Mr. Joseph Maurice Solomon, Fellow of the College, Readers appointed by the Council. The result of this experiment so far has been such as to encourage a hope that when the existence of these Evening Classes becomes better known, they will be a means of permanently extending the usefulness of the College to a class of persons whose circumstances preclude them from availing themselves of the ordinary College Classes, without interfering with the attendance on the more regular and systematic courses of instruction. Up to the present date, 233 tickets for Evening Classes have been issued to 86 Students.*

* [Nine of these are attending Day Classes also].

BUILDING FUND.

Mr. Sharpe has since conferred on the College another and still greater benefit. At a Session of Council on the 2nd June he presented to Lord Belper, Vice-President of the College and Chairman on the occasion, a letter as follows:—

"My Lord,

From the increased numbers of students in the College and boys in the School, the need seems to have arisen for a larger space for Class Rooms, which would perhaps be best supplied by adding a wing to the present Building to receive the School. To assist in forwarding this desirable improvement, and as a step towards raising a Building Fund, I wish to present to the College the Sum of One Thousand Pounds, with the condition that it should be invested in Consols and allowed to increase at compound interest by investing the dividends in the same stock, until the Council, after receiving other gifts for the same purpose, shall think fit to make use of it for Building."

"Accordingly I would beg the favour of your proposing to the Council that the above gift be accepted with the condition attached to it.

"I am,

"Yours obediently,

(Signed) "Saml. Sharpe."

"Highbury Place, 2nd June."

It was thereupon unanimously resolved "that the Council feel deeply grateful to Mr. Sharpe for his munificent donation of One Thousand Pounds towards the purpose indicated in his letter; that such sum be forthwith invested in Consols to be preserved and to accumulate, in the hope that Mr. Sharpe's generosity may operate as an example to others." In the following week the sum of £1000 was paid by Mr. Sharpe to the account of the College with their bankers, and on the 7th June invested in the purchase of £1159 8*s* 5*d*, Consols.

The Council earnestly invite the attention of friends of the College to the proposal and example of Mr. Sharpe. That more Class Rooms are needed, and that the efficiency of the College would be greatly promoted by an addition to their number cannot be doubted. For some time past every room in the building has been in almost constant use. The requirements of the School have so increased that the intention of having the meetings of its Classes in a part of the building kept distinct from that appropriated to the elder College Students has in some instances been of necessity abandoned: a Room formerly assigned to the College department of Natural Philosophy, but for some years past given up entirely to the use of the School, is now, under the new arrangements for extended instruction in Experimental Physics, again required for the purpose to which it was originally destined, and its use by the School interferes with the development of those arrangements. At the same time the need of better accommodation, and of a room of more adequate dimensions and appliances for instructing the Classes of Chemistry and Physics in the School, as referred to in a former part of this report, is pressed on the attention of the Council by Mr. Gill, the teacher of those branches of knowledge, and his representations are seconded by the Head Master. Under these circumstances, among others, it is obvious that an enlargement of the building is a great desideratum; and the Council concur in the view of Mr. Sharpe that the best mode of supplying the wants of the College in this respect would be the erection of a South wing, and the removal of the School from the existing building. The accomplishment of such a project, and the raising of the necessary funds for it, must, however, be a work of time. Yet the need of proceeding is urgent. Mr. Sharpe consents that the sum which he has bestowed with a view to its accumulating at interest, might be at once employed in commencing the erection of the wing by building rooms which should project about 50 feet westward, in a mode which should in no wise interfere with the completion of the wing according to the original design, and which might leave the stone facing to be added at a future time.

The Council would be glad to adopt this suggestion; and if Mr. Sharpe's One thousand Pounds could be increased by the sum of two thousand or three thousand pounds, supplied by friends of the College, the building might be at once commenced, and the Council would be enabled to restore to the Professor of Experimental Physics, the room required for the extended instruction to be given in his subject; and at the same time to provide for the School the accommodation contemplated by the School Committee as necessary for its enlarged numbers, for the better classification of the pupils, and for their more efficient instruction in the branches of science to which such praiseworthy attention has of late years been given in the courses of education in the School.

DONATIONS FOR THE LIBRARIES &c.

The principal donations of works received by the College since the last Annual Meeting are the following: twenty-five volumes, chiefly on Classical subjects by German authors, from Professor Newman; five volumes of McGregor's Commercial Tariff, from Dr. Hodgson; a valuable collection of works on Chemistry, forty-three volumes, chiefly French and German, from Professor Carey Foster; many numbers of the Bibliotheca Indica, both series, from the Royal Asiatic Society of Bengal; nineteen volumes of Latin authors, chiefly copies of various editions of Horace, some of them very early, from Professor Sharpey; five folio volumes of the works of Goltzius from Mr. Samuel Sharpe, besides a work by himself on Egyptian Hieroglyphics. The College is indebted to Sir John Bowring for a portrait in oil of Mr. Jeremy Bentham when a young man; and for a confirmation of the gift of a portrait of Dr. Gilchrist, painted in Paris by Signor Branconi, an Italian artist, which had been several years in the College, deposited by the widow of Dr. Gilchrist, the Signora Pepe.

DEATH OF MEMBERS OF COUNCIL.

The Council have to lament the decease of two Members of their body in the interval between the last and the present Annual Meetings. By the death of Mr. Frederick D. Goldsmid, after a very short illness in the month of March last, the College has sustained a heavy loss. The attention which Mr. Goldsmid had bestowed on the affairs of the College, and his time of life had afforded reasons for expecting from him much valuable service. He had become a Member of Council on the retirement of the Baron de Goldsmid, his father, in 1859, and in 1864 he entered on more frequent and active duties as a Member of the Committee of Management. He took especial interest in the concerns of the Hospital, and, besides other generous contributions, engaged to furnish by annual instalments the means of endowment for one bed in perpetuity. For the fulfilment of this intention, which he was spared to execute in part only while living, he provided by the testamentary Bequest of a sum sufficient with his previous donations to make up £2000 Consols, which he had destined for the purpose. He also left a Legacy of £50 for present use. The directions of Mr. Goldsmid's Will were promptly carried into effect by his Executors.

Mr. Goldsmid had, moreover, joined his brother in originating Entrance Exhibitions for Students of the Faculty of Medicine of the College, and added £100 to the like sum offered by Sir Francis towards the experiment for three years. The institution of these Exhibitions has been followed by a considerable and gradual increase in the Numbers and Receipts of the Medical School: the experiment therefore has claims to be regarded as a successful one*.

Mr. Henry Crabb Robinson had been thirty-two years a Member of the Council, and during that time had been in several ways very assiduous in the service of the College. His attendances on the Council were for the greater part of that long period constant. During twenty-nine years (1838–1867) he was also an active and useful Member of the Committee of Management. From 1838 to 1865, one year excepted, he held the office of Vice-President of the Senate. In the excepted year he was President of the Senate. To him the College is mainly indebted for the possession of the Flaxman Casts and Drawings. His friendship with Flaxman and with Flaxman's adopted daughter, Miss Maria Denman, and his love of Art, prompted him to exert himself for the preservation of those valuable specimens of sculpture and design; and his connexion with the College enabled him to find a place in which they might be worthily fixed, taken care of, and exhibited. He became Treasurer of the Fund collected for defraying the expense of affixing and preserving them. His subscription to that Fund was the largest in the lists, and, with other contributions for improving the Hall, amounted to nearly five hundred pounds. Some of his gifts were in his own name, others anonymously, or in the name of relations or friends.

Mr. Robinson died on Tuesday the 5th inst., at the very advanced age of 91 years and 9 months, having remained until the preceding Saturday in full possession of very active mental faculties.

The Council at their first Meeting after his death were informed by Mr. Field that he had by Deed secured the sum of £2000 for the support of the Flaxman Gallery. They have this day received a copy of the Deed dated in 1858. By this Deed it is provided that the Income of the Fund shall be applied towards the preservation, custody, more convenient and complete exhibition to the Public, and augmentation of the Flaxman Gallery, in the Building of the College; and should there be at any time any surplus of income, such surplus might be applied in the decoration of the Flaxman Gallery and in the purchase of Books, Engravings, Drawings, and Works of Art, which might advance the study of the Fine Arts in University College, and promote any of the Sciences connected therewith.

The Trustees of the Fund, Mr. W. Strickland Cookson and Mr. E. Wilkins Field, have informed the Council that, besides the £2000 invested, there is a balance of accumulated Income, which in October last amounted to £320 4*s.* 5*d.* applicable to the Trusts of the Fund.

A Bust in plaster of Mr. Robinson, at the age of 56, by Mr. Ewing, at Rome, in 1831, and formerly belonging to Mr. Robinson's deceased friend, Mr. Kenyon, has been presented to the College by Mr. Booth.

* The Professors of the Faculty have borne their share in the experiment by contributing a portion of their fees.

FINANCES.

The income of 1865–66 exceeded the expenses and liabilities incurred for that Session by the sum of £452 19*s.* 3*d.* The difference between that sum and the balances shown in the formal statements of Receipts and Expenditure at pp. 20–24 is to be accounted for, on the one hand, by payments for past years, and on the other by two or three bills standing over at the close of the Session*.

It is to be observed that, in consideration of the deficiency of Receipts in recent years, extraordinary expenses were, generally speaking, avoided during the last Session; the only exception was in the case of the Class of Experimental Physics. The extended mode of instruction introduced by Prof. Carey Foster both in the General Class and by the establishment of a Physical Laboratory has seemed to the Council worthy of special encouragement, and to justify their incurring additional expense, both present and future, to promote its success.

BYE LAWS AMENDMENTS.

The Amendments in the Bye Laws, Sections X., XI., and XIII., concerning the tenure of Professorships proposed to the last Annual Meeting were not proceeded with on that occasion, because the number of Members required for the treating of such matters was not present. The Council again offer these Amendments for consideration, and recommend their adoption. At the same time they propose slight alterations in Section III. Clauses 9 and 11, and in Section VII. Clause 3, authorizing the transmission of Notices, Reports, and other Documents to Members residing beyond the limits of the London District Post, and pro-

* The following details will explain the apparent discrepancy, for any Member of the College who chooses to devote a little attention to the examination of the accounts:—The College portion of Fees from College and School (exclusive of some Receipts for the succeeding Session), after payment of Professors and Masters and return to Students, was £3724 2*s.* 11*d.* The income from other sources—Dividends of Funds £1200 1*s.* 7½*d.* (being £1550 1*s.* 7½*d.*, after deducting £350 applied to Holme Endowments for Clinical Instruction); Transfer of Shares £12 12*s.* 0*d.*; Interest of Hospital Debt £150 0*s.* 0*d.*; Balance of Rent of Lockers £51 6*s.* 6*d.*; Sale of Calendars £22 9*s.* 6*d.*—was £1436 9*s.* 7*d.* The total income of the year strictly available for the expenses of the establishment was £5160 12*s.* 6*d.* The payments on account of the establishment, exclusive of those to Professors and Masters, were £4520 15*s.* 9*d.*; i. e. the expenses of the establishment, after deducting from the total of £4366 6*s.* 10*d.* (vide p. 24), payments on account of previous years of £232 10*s.* 10*d.*, amounted to £4133 16*s.* 0*d.*; to this, however, are to be added expenses carried to Capital Account:—Furniture, Library, Apparatus of Natural Philosophy, &c., £167 6*s.* 2*d.*; Augmentation to Professors £150; English Essay Prize £5; Contribution to Soirée £20; Interest on Loan £44 13*s.* 7*d.*; also sums due, but not called for before the closing of the Accounts, Poor's Rate, £156 5*s.* 0*d.*, and three small Bills £30 12*s.* 6*d.* = £186 17*s.* 6*d.*

The total expense, then, incurred for the establishment was £4707 13*s.* 3*d.*, and the Balance of that year's Receipts and Expenditure for the year would have been £452 19*s.* 3*d*; on the other hand the payments on account of previous years were as follows:—Printers' Bill £175 17*s.* 0*d.*; an Investment of £77 10*s.* 10*d.* in New 3 per Cents towards the Reserve Fund, as a guarantee against loss by Investments of New 5 per Cent Annuities, redeemable at par in 1872; other outstanding bills £56 13*s.* 10*d.* To these sums should be added the deposit at interest with the Bankers of the College of the amount of Mr. Sharpe's Gift in the preceding year of £200 for the promotion of Evening Classes.

viding for the examination of the Minute Books by any Member of the College on application in writing to the Secretary.

An Amendment of more importance is proposed in Section XIV. by a new Clause, which will so far enlarge the jurisdiction over Students as to give the authorities of the College power to take cognizance of the acts of Students who bring discredit upon the College by disorderly conduct beyond its precincts.

THE HOSPITAL.

Respecting the Hospital, the Council, leaving to the Hospital Committee to give details to the General Meeting of Subscribers next month, have to report summarily as follows:—The cost of maintaining it during the past year was greater than in any former year, in consequence of the increased price of provisions and an extraordinary expenditure incurred during the Cholera Epidemic.

Moreover, the erection of new buildings, with the necessary supply of Furniture and Fittings, for the better accommodation of Outdoor Patients, and the providing additional means of comfort for the Indoor Patients, involved an extra expense of nearly £1500. The total Expenditure amounted to £10154 2*s.* 7*d.* On the other hand the Receipts were proportionate*, and by means of them the Investments, independently of those transferred from the Estate of the late Mr. Yates, were increased by £1993 sterling; while the Debt, which at this time last year was reported to be £8000, and which at its close in October had risen to £9608, was shortly afterwards reduced to £6000, by the discharge of several tradesmen's bills, of which there had been an accumulation.

The Committee during the latter half of the year had begun to receive Income from the Bequest of the late Mr. Yates. The transfer of the Funds derivable from that source is not yet quite complete, but the account is on the eve of a final settlement. It is calculated that the Income will be about £2000 per annum. A Moiety of this sum is to be applied, according to the terms of Mr. Yates's will, "to and for the purposes of the Samaritan Fund of the Hospital, or the Fund thereof which is or may be devoted to or used for the Relief of Poor Patients;" and the Committee have now under their consideration the question of the best mode of applying it in a manner so as to fulfil the intention of the Testator. In the meantime they have obtained from the Council permission to use a portion of the unoccupied ground of the College, on the north side, as a Recreation Ground for convalescent Patients.

Of the changes that have taken place in the offices of Physicians and Surgeons of the Hospital an account has been already given under the title of Professorships; there remains to be mentioned that in the post of Resident Medical Officer. Towards the close of the last Session Dr. Rickards, with a view to engage in private practice, resigned that appointment. Out of six Candidates, of whom five had been Students of the College, Mr. C. E. Squarey, one of the five, was selected to fill up the vacancy. Since the termination of his studies he had filled the offices, first, of Assistant Medical Officer, and afterwards of Resident Medical Officer, of the London Fever Hospital.

Notwithstanding the general improvement in the circumstances of the Hospital, its Financial condition and prospects are not such as to allow the Committee to forego recourse to an annual festival in aid of its Income.

* The special contributions on account of the Cholera amounted to £456 9*s.* 3*d.*

The Treasurer, Sir Francis H. Goldsmid, has kindly yielded to the request of the Council that he would take the Chair at a Public Dinner in the course of the Spring; and Wednesday, the 27th March, has been fixed for a Dinner at Willis's Rooms, at which he will preside.

Last year, when His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge favoured the Hospital by presiding, the collection amounted to £1500.

The Council earnestly recommend the interests of the Hospital the increased exertions of the friends of the College.

WORKING MEN'S MEMORIAL OF GRATITUDE TO SIR ROBERT PEEL.

Four Institutions, viz. the Fazeley Club Library, the Newcastle-on-Tyne Mechanics' Institute, the Belfast People's Literary Institution, and the Working Men's College, London, received contributions from the Income of this Fund in 1866. Books, &c., costing £15, were furnished to each of them.

The expenses incurred by the Trustees for advertising, printing, &c., amounted to £4 17*s* 4*d*. The balance of dividends at this day is £49 14*s* 6*d*. The intention to make, this spring, three Gifts of books, at the cost of £15 for each Gift, will be advertised forthwith.

Secretary.
